

Bio – Anna Gonzalski

Anna Gonzalski serves as Senior Technical Manager at Hohenstein. She brings extensive expertise in U.S. regulations along with functional knowledge of Canadian, EU and UK regulations across product categories including apparel, home textiles, footwear, toys, children's products, luggage, accessories, housewares and food contact materials. Anna also leads protocol development and comparison initiatives to support regulatory, chemical and physical testing programs, helping onboard and grow new business.

Prior to joining Hohenstein in 2025, Anna spent 23 years in business development, operational and technical roles at testing laboratories specializing in retail and consumer product testing. She offers deep R&D, performance and technical expertise in softlines, hardlines and toys.

Anna holds a B.S. in Industrial Technology with a concentration in quality and a B.A. in Biology from Buffalo State University.